

This week your child has been exploring different kinds of homes that people or animals live in. They have been celebrating home as a place in which we love and are loved; in which we live with others and therefore have some responsibilities. Where appropriate children have been nurtured in giving thanks and praise to God for the home in which they live. You might like to pray/reflect with your child, from your own tradition's perspective, on home.

For Parents