

For Parents

This week your child has been exploring winter and learning to appreciate the things and the people who feed us and help us through this cold and dark time of the year. They have been exploring how, it is not only food that feeds us, but stories and memories, particularly those of our family tradition.